

✿ Juno for Disabled Students' Officer! ✿

Hello all! My name is Juno – I'm a first year Archaeology student – and I would love to be your Disabled Students' Officer at Christs for the coming year.

As a disabled student myself I am aware that whilst this is a fantastic place to study, there is always room for improvement concerning accessibility, both within college and the wider university. I want to provide a safe (and most importantly friendly!) space for disabled students in Christ's to allow for open communication, whether it be questions, concerns, or simply understanding.

Tutor: Dr Read

Proposer: Romany Whittal

Seconder: Ossie Visick

What I would hope to achieve –

- Improve the accessibility of Christ's for all disabled students, especially shared facilities such as the library and upper hall. This includes both greater physical accessibility in the college as a whole, as well as increased provision of accessibility aids for whoever may need them.
- Increase awareness in the wider Christ's community about disability. I feel like this could form a more central part of workshops for freshers to provide information about different disabilities, harmful language and assumptions, and also how to access disability related resources at a college and university level.
- And most importantly... to be an approachable person who can provide a channel of communication between students and college to improve student life for all, and to speak with tutors and other university staff on a more individual basis.
